

Introduction

What does Island County need to be a healthier place to live, learn, work, and play?

Island County Public Health, in collaboration with your Community Health Advisory Board, Board of Health, and over 20 other local health partners, is working to complete the 2024 Island County Community Health Assessment. Right now, we are collecting information to better understand the health of our population and the factors that contribute to making us more or less healthy.

How will your opinion make a difference?

The results of this survey will go into the Community Health Assessment report. This report gets distributed widely throughout the county and region, and is used by community leaders, agency directors and staff, service providers, and community groups to help make informed decisions about what health needs exist in our community and what work needs to be done.

The Community Health Assessment is also the first step in our Community Health Planning process and will be used to identify community-wide priorities to improve our health and quality of life.

Thank you for sharing your experience and ideas!

The End

Thank you for completing the Island County Community Health Survey! Results will be available mid-year 2024 and can be found on our website: <https://www.islandcountywa.gov/792/2023-24-Community-Health-Assessment-CHA#>

The Community Health Assessment is the first step in our Community Health Planning process. Community Health Planning looks beyond the performance of a single organization serving a specific segment of a community. It is a collaborative effort to evaluate the health of our community and coordinate the activities of many organizations toward improvement. Your Public Health staff will be coordinating the next steps so that as a community we can prioritize a few specific issues to focus on over the next 3-5 years and commit to a coordinated plan to work toward those goals. That coordinated plan is called the Community Health Improvement Plan.
